

January Students of the Month – Perseverance

Kindergarten - Mrs. Heuer. Oakley Ellman is the student of the month in Mrs. Heuer's kindergarten class for the theme of Perseverance. Oakley comes to school every day ready to learn and with a positive disposition. She has worked hard on learning kindergarten skills and has shown patience when things get difficult - but she keeps trying! She has shown a lot of growth in her academics through her hard work, perseverance, and willingness to try new things. Oakley is responsible for her actions and always tries to follow the classroom and school rules. She builds people up with her helpfulness, kind words and with her smile. She is a good friend to have in our classroom. Congratulations, Oakley!

Kindergarten - Ms. Miller. Lucy Schuast is the student of the month in Miss Miller's kindergarten class. Lucy comes to school every day excited and ready to learn and with a positive attitude. She is working very hard on learning kindergarten skills and has shown patience when things get difficult! She has shown a lot of growth in her academics through her hard work and perseverance. Lucy is responsible for her actions and always tries to follow the classroom and school rules. She is an amazing friend to have in our classroom. Congratulations, Lucy!

Grade One - Miss Byrd. For Student of the Month January, perseverance, I chose Willow Dalager. She shows perseverance by always resetting when she's upset, working through difficult things, helping others, never giving up when work is hard, works through issues with her classmates, and is always very positive when trying to get through things.

Grade One - Mrs. Pavlenko. I would like to recognize Beckett Lammers as my January Student of the Month. Upon entering our 1st Grade classroom, you could look at Beckett and see his dedication to learning. Beckett works hard, even when something is a challenge for him, and encourages his classmates to do the same, only asking for help when needed. He has shown impressive growth in all subjects so far this year, particularly in Reading-he is becoming an expert at sounding out words and reading his nightly Backpack Books! Beckett is kind to everyone he comes into contact with, and leads by example. He loves making connections to things at school he has already learned, and sharing that love with those around him-he enjoys making his friends and teachers smile regularly! He is positive, happy, and ready to work. Beckett deserves to be Student of the Month for his perseverance and positive behavior-great job, Beckett!

Grade Two - Mrs. Carlson. January's theme of perseverance has been shown by George Forcier many times in the classroom. George works through obstacles that he faces at school by asking questions and doing the best he can do each day. If something doesn't go well, he tries to find new solutions! He continues to work hard to become an independent problem solver. I am excited to call George the student of the month for January!

Grade Two - Mrs. Eastling. I nominate Parker McCarthy for student of the month for perseverance. He works very hard in class. He is always participating and pushing himself to write neatly, add detail, or finish assignments. When Parker is working on something challenging he pushes himself to find a solution or work it out.

Grade Three - Mrs. Wadman. January's theme of perseverance has been shown by Avrey Lind in many different ways. Avrey always comes to school with a motivated attitude! She perseveres through any problem that she may not know. Even if she does not understand a skill the first time, she tries and tries again until she gets it. Avrey also influences others in the class to not give up! Avrey is having such an amazing year here in 3rd grade! I am proud to name Avrey student of the month for January!

Grade Three - Mrs. LaMott. Congratulations to Kelvin Norstedt for being selected student of the month from Mrs. LaMott's classroom! Kel is a hard worker! He will always try his best, even when things get tough. Kel doesn't get discouraged or upset, he just keeps going - a perfect example of perseverance! Kel is always looking to make progress on his goals, whether it be his multiplication facts or reading more books - he just keeps working! On top of working so hard, Kel is also very respectful of others, responsible for his actions, and a good friend! Congratulations Kel and keep up the good work! :)

Grade Four - Mrs. Gallagher. The January student of the month for Mrs. Gallagher's class is Jerome Sherman. This month's theme is perseverance. There are so many new challenges in fourth grade, and sometimes it can be overwhelming! There are multi-step math concepts and longer, more difficult stories to read. This means sitting still and working can feel like an eternity; especially when it's difficult! Jerome has worked hard on learning to recognize when he needs a break from some of the stresses that come with being in fourth grade. When Jerome masters a concept, he is learning to appreciate the hard work it took to get there. He's putting in extra effort to show respect by raising his hand to share what he has learned. Although he's not always the first to raise his hand, he's more than willing to contribute to the class discussion when he's given an extra moment to think about it or in situations where he feels confident. This shows perseverance! Also, with lots of energy to burn, it can be difficult to play safely. Jerome has been making a strong effort to use that energy in safe areas so he can focus when he returns to class. I am so glad to see Jerome make such great progress! Congratulations Jerome!

Grade Four - Mr. Goudy. Zae-Sean Rohde is January's student of the Month. Zae-Sean continues to put one foot forward as he strives to become more independent in his learning. In terms of being respectful to his teachers and classmates, he is top notch! He keeps a consistent smile on his face as much as he can and kids enjoy being around him. I can see him trying to improve himself at asking for help and seeking assistance when things get hard. I know he is going to continue to work on that moving forward. Congrats on persevering Zae-Sean and keep the pedal to the medal!
