

February Students of the Month – Honesty

Kindergarten - Mrs. Heuer. Sam Berg is the student of the month in Mrs. Heuer's kindergarten class for the theme of honesty. He shows honesty in many ways at school. Sam speaks the truth in our classroom and always tries to do the right thing. He treats others with the greatest respect and shows a genuine kindness towards peers and adults. You can tell that he really cares about his classmates and teachers in his actions and words. He is honest about needing help and feels comfortable asking for help when needed. He always wants to do his best! Congratulations, Sam!

Kindergarten - Ms. Miller. Benson Lindstrom is the student of the month in Miss Miller's kindergarten class for the theme of honesty. He shows honesty in many different ways at school. Benson always tries to do the right thing. He treats others with respect and shows kindness to others in our classroom and school. You can tell that he really cares about his classmates and teachers by his actions and words. He is honest when explaining what happened if something came up between students. He is also honest about needing help and isn't afraid to ask for help. He always tries to do his best! Congratulations Benson!

Grade One - Miss Byrd. For February student of the month I chose IsabelMay Schmidt. She shows honesty by always telling the truth. Telling me things that happen without me asking, admitting to mistakes or issues that have happened and correcting them, and is always kind.

Grade One - Mrs. Pavlenko. I would like to nominate James Marker for my February Student of the Month. James consistently works hard, sharing his kindness and positivity with others. He comes to school everyday with a smile on his face, prepared and ready to learn, often sharing a story or funny anecdote with his friends and teachers upon arrival, as well as throughout the day. He is honest in everything he does, whether it's about something that happened at recess with his peers, completing his work with the utmost effort, or even sharing what his favorite subject is in school (Mathematics!). James is also very helpful and respectful if he is given a job to do, no matter how challenging, he has learned to give his best effort! Finally, James uses friendly and encouraging words with his classmates and teachers, and enjoys sharing and celebrating their accomplishments, big and small, as well as his own. I have loved having James in my class and look forward to the rest of the school year together. Keep up the great work!

Grade Two - Mrs. Carlson. February's theme of honesty has been shown by Addalyn Baumann many times in the classroom. Addalyn is straightforward and always willing to tell the truth, even when it might be difficult. She continues to show that she lives truthfully in her words and actions. Addalyn can be trusted to follow our rules and expectations in the classroom. I am excited to call Addalyn our student of the month for February.

Grade Two - Mrs. Eastling. I nominate Lily Hintz for February student of the month. She shows honesty throughout the day. She is honest in her work that she completes. She is a great leader on days I have subs because she can be counted on to help with daily activities. She is honest with herself in how she feels and can find effective ways to deal with her emotions. Lily is a great friend because she is kind, helpful, and always honest! Great job, Lily!

Grade Three - Mrs. Wadman. February's theme of honesty has been shown by Axel Mass in many different ways. Axel is a great role model at school! He shows honesty by always returning lost items to rightful owners and apologizing for his own mistakes. Axel also influences others in the class to be honest, even when it is difficult! Axel is having such an amazing year in 3rd grade! I am proud to name Axel student of the month for February!

Grade Three - Mrs. LaMott. Congratulations to Ellie Smith for being selected student of the month from Mrs. LaMott's classroom! Ellie has been honest and trustworthy all year long. She can help others follow our routines because she knows the expectations. Ellie is straightforward and always willing to tell the truth, even when it might be difficult. She continues to show that she lives truthfully in her words and actions. Congratulations Ellie and keep up the good work! :)

Grade Four - Mrs. Gallagher. The February student of the month for Mrs. Gallagher's class is Alex Collins. This month's theme is honesty. Alex shows honesty in his daily actions and kind words. When faced with a difficult decision, he understands right from wrong and will make good choices--not for the recognition--but because it's the right thing to do. Alex has many other positive character traits. Friends and teachers alike will tell you that Alex is polite, kind, and responsible. Alex is an enthusiastic learner and participates appropriately in class and with partners. He is a great role model for other students and we are glad to have him in our class. Congratulations Alex!

Grade Four - Mr. Goudy. I would like to nominate John Hirsch for February's student of the month. John has not only had a great month of making good decisions, he's gaining a bit more stamina in the classroom. He has been pretty straightforward and honest since the beginning of the year, but he has improved in handling his emotions. He has taken direction better from adults and his interactions with his peers have improved. Let's keep the positive momentum going John, Congrats!
