

March Students of the Month – Cooperation

Kindergarten - Mrs. Heuer. Emma Foss is the student of the month in Mrs. Heuer's kindergarten class for the theme of cooperation. Emma is honest, helpful, and thoughtful. She is patient in waiting for her turn and does not rush or get in the other children's way. She works well with everyone and is a help to her peers and to her teachers. She tries to do what is right and fixes the problem if something is not right. She always tries to be the best that she can be and always has a smile to share with us! She is a very hard worker! Congratulations, Emma!

Kindergarten - Ms. Miller. Happy Yang is the student of the month in Miss Miller's classroom for the theme of cooperation. Happy is honest, kind, helpful and thoughtful. She is patient while waiting for her turn and does not rush or get in the way of other students. She works well with everyone and is a help to her peers and teachers. She makes an effort to do what is right and fixes the problem if something is wrong. She tries to be the best that she can be and is a hard-working learner. Congratulations, Happy!

Grade One - Miss Byrd. For March Student of the Month theme cooperation, I chose Bevyn Huselton. He shows cooperation by always following directions, getting along with others, helping others with rules and routines, helping others solve problems and being kind. He always works hard to get along with his classmates and others in the school or works to solve issues to help get along with others.

Grade One - Mrs. Pavlenko. I would like to nominate Sophia Lopez-Navarro for my March Student of the Month. Sophia is a great friend and a terrific team player. She does a fine job of working cooperatively, whether it's reading her close reader and circling sound patterns with a partner during Reading, completing addition and subtraction activities together during Math Block, or being a cheerleader to a friend who's having a hard day, Sophia knows that cooperating means lending a helping hand if someone needs it. Her peers and I would like to recognize Sophia for a job well done. Way to work hard, Sophia! Super job!

Grade Two - Mrs. Carlson. March's theme of cooperation has been shown by Parker Hoiland frequently in the classroom. Parker is always willing to do what is asked of him. He never complains about the group arrangements that are given, and he works well with others. Parker is engaged in classroom activities. He is attentive, cooperative, and withholds the ability to compromise. I am proud to call Parker the student of the month for March.

Grade Two - Mrs. Eastling. I nominate Bianca Thom for student of the month for cooperation. She consistently works well with everyone in my class. She is helpful and kind to everyone when working in groups. Bianca shows sportsmanship when playing games and is a good sport when she wins or loses. Great job, Bianca!

Grade Three - Mrs. Wadman. March's theme of cooperation has been shown by Ella Ricci in many different ways. Ella is always willing to give a helping hand to any classmate in the classroom or around the school. She shows cooperation by showing others how to take turns when it comes to playing games. Ella also influences others in the class to work together in productive ways to solve any conflict that may arise! Ella is having such an amazing year here in 3rd grade! I am proud to name Ella student of the month for March!

Grade Three - Mrs. LaMott. Congratulations to Oliver Figueroa Figueroa for being selected student of the month from Mrs. LaMott's classroom! Oliver tries his best with all his assignments. He comes to school ready and eager to learn. Oliver gets excited when he makes a connection from the classroom to his experiences outside school. Oliver cooperates with his classmates and never shies away from helping out. He loves to talk about his ideas and welcomes input from the other students. Congratulations Oliver and keep up the good work! :)

Grade Four - Mrs. Gallagher. The March student of the month for Mrs. Gallagher's class is Aubrey Sievers. This month's theme is cooperation. Aubrey shows cooperation when she works with partners in the classroom by staying on task and working together. Aubrey shows self-discipline by waiting patiently to be called on in class while participating in an appropriate manner. She shows respect by working quietly and staying focused on her work. When faced with difficult decisions, she knows right from wrong. Aubrey was elected to represent his school as a student council member. This is evidence that she is respected by his classmates. We are so glad to have Aubrey in our class. Congratulations Aubrey!

Grade Four - Mr. Goudy. Arabella Schwankl is the student of the month for March! She is cooperative, a team player, and communicates well with whomever she works with. I can trust her to lead a group to stay on task and achieve the goal that has been set. She always has a bubbly personality that is infectious to others around her. She consistently participates in class by giving thoughtful answers that engage the lesson. She also hasn't missed a single day of school all year long which is an accomplishment to itself. I am very proud of her hard work and dedication, this is well deserving!
Congrats Bella!
