

October Students of the Month – Responsibility

Kindergarten - Mrs. Heuer. Avery Kelley is the student of the month in Mrs. Heuer's kindergarten class. Avery is very responsible in our classroom. She takes care of her personal items and takes care of all the things she uses in our classroom. She listens to directions and follows directions without having to have them be repeated. She puts forth great effort in learning as much as she can, and she does her best to learn the new skills and concepts that are taught. Avery tries to do what is right and to make the best choices for herself. She always has a positive outlook and a positive attitude which is shared with us all and we appreciate it! Congratulations Avery!

Kindergarten - Miss Miller. Layla Odenbrett is the student of the month in Miss Miller's kindergarten class. Layla is responsible in our classroom and school. She listens to instructions and follows directions to get her work done. She also quietly helps those who were confused by the directions when needed while getting her own work done. She is organized with her supplies and tries her hardest to do her best. Layla is always positive and has a great attitude throughout the day which is appreciated by all! Congratulations Layla!

Grade One - Miss Byrd. For Student of the Month, October, I chose Brielle Mochinski. She shows responsibility by always being prepared for class. She follows the rules, helps others, reads every day, brings back her homework and helps others to be prepared as well.

Grade One - Mrs. Pavlenko. I would like to recognize Colton Shaw as my October Student of the Month. Colton is wonderful at showing responsibility, whether it is putting forth his best effort in his classwork, working hard at keeping his materials organized, or participating during instruction. He also shows how responsible he is by helping his friends if they have a question or are struggling, especially during math, and helping his teachers by going above and beyond what is expected, particularly with reading his Backpack Books (over 40 books read so far this year...wow!). Colton begins each day ready for class, and ends each day ready to go home and share all that he has learned. He is dependable, and can be trusted to do whatever is necessary, whether it is helping his classmates stack their chairs at the end of the day, cleaning up a friend's game during Free Choice time, or emptying the pencil sharpener every morning. He shows how responsible he is by leading by example, which is why I would like to give Colton a shout out on a job well done!

Grade Two - Mrs. Carlson/Mrs. Sanken. October's theme of RESPONSIBILITY is shown by Avery Feider in many different situations. She hands in notes, payments and homework on time, even when she is busy with family activities. Avery's Show and Tell is on Monday and she is always prepared. I can always count on Avery to work well independently and in small groups. She takes school work and tests seriously and does well on those tasks. That's why Avery is having a happy and successful year in second grade! I am proud to name Avery as student of the month for October!

Grade Two - Mrs. Eastling. I nominate Eleanor Reynolds for Student of the Month for "responsibility". Eleanor is a student who is on task during lessons. She participates, asks questions, and is engaged throughout it all. When given the opportunity to work with partners, small groups, or choice seating she works hard, is respectful, and completes all her work. She is a good listener to others, and I can count on her when I need help with something.

Grade Three - Mrs. LaMott. Congratulations to Laura Fasching for being selected student of the month from Mrs. LaMott's classroom! Laura is great at showing responsibility, whether it is through the effort she puts into her work, keeping her materials organized, or participating during lessons. She always has her homework turned in on time and is very dependable! Laura also shows how responsible she is by helping others when it is appropriate. She knows right from wrong and works hard every day to make good choices. Congratulations Laura and keep up the good work! :)

Grade Three - Mrs. Wadman. October's theme of responsibility has been shown by Brooks Cloutier in many different ways. He arrives at school prepared to learn everyday and is always willing to help a classmate out. Brooks is also a great role model for other students in the school by always following the rules. He is going to have such an amazing year here in 3rd grade! I am proud to name Brooks student of the month for October!

Grade Four - Mrs. Gallagher. The October Student of the Month for Mrs. Gallagher's class is Cassidy Erickson. There are many ways in which Cassidy demonstrates responsibility. She is very good about completing her assignments on time, working quietly and she always does her best work. She makes sure her materials are put away appropriately and can easily find what she needs to do her work. Friends and teachers alike will tell you that Cassidy is a great citizen in our school. She is polite, kind, and has a great attitude about school. Cassidy also shows other areas of greatness. She shows great self-discipline by waiting patiently to be called on in class while also participating in an appropriate manner. She works well with partners in the classroom and playing with others on the playground. We love having Cassidy in our class. Congratulations Cassidy!

Grade Four - Mr. Goudy. The student of the month for responsibility is Matthew Cornelius. Matthew shows many traits of responsibility. For starters, he keeps an incredibly organized desk at school with no loose papers or garbage. He can access anything he needs in a short time span due to everything being placed in the correct spots. He is a great older brother who looks after his younger siblings. Matthew sees many different teachers and staff throughout the day and can keep his schedule straight somehow! It's super impressive :). With Matthew's hearing loss, he needs to be responsible for not only his implants that he uses, but his sound piece that he needs to give to teachers. He makes sure that it charges at the end of each day and so it's ready to go for the following day. He has been a fantastic helper in my classroom as well. He is always looking for something that he can help me with. Keep up the great work Matthew!
