

February Students of the Month – Honesty

Kindergarten - Mrs. Heuer. Kingsley Mertz is the student of the month in Mrs. Heuer's kindergarten class for the theme of honesty. Kingsley shows honesty in many ways at school. She speaks the truth in our classroom and always tries to do the right thing. She treats others with the greatest respect and shows a genuine kindness towards peers and adults. You can tell that she really cares about her classmates and teachers in her actions and words. She is honest about needing help and feels comfortable asking for help when needed. She always wants to do her best! Congratulations, Kingsley!

Kindergarten - Miss Miller. Alice Hausladen is the student of the month in Miss Miller's kindergarten class. Alice shows honesty in many different ways at school. She tells the class her true answer to a question even if others don't say it and she tells me the truth when explaining a story or event. Alice is honest but also respectful when being honest. She doesn't want to be rude to others when telling the truth so she will tell it gently and kindly. When she needs help, she isn't afraid to ask and always tries her best! Congratulations Alice!

Grade One - Miss Byrd/Mrs. Neumann. The citizenship theme for the month of February is honesty. First grader, Shi Muonio is a student that is honest with others as well as with himself. A person has to have this trait in order to be a good citizen. Shi is a student that plays fair, he is trustworthy, he doesn't take things that do not belong to him and he returns things he borrows. He tells the truth and admits when he is wrong. Congratulations and thank you for being such a kind, caring, and honest student at Winsted Elementary!

Grade One - Mrs. Pavlenko. I would like to nominate Jayden Spike for my February Student of the Month. Jayden consistently works hard, sharing his kindness and positivity with others. He comes to school everyday with a smile on his face, prepared and ready to learn, often sharing a funny story or comment with his friends and teachers throughout the day. He is honest in everything he does, whether it's about something that happened at Phy. Ed. with his peers, completing his work with his best effort, or even sharing what his favorite subject is in school (Math!). Jayden is also very helpful and respectful-if he is given a job to do, no matter how challenging, he has learned to give it his all! Finally, Jayden uses friendly and encouraging words with his classmates and teachers, and enjoys sharing and celebrating their accomplishments, big and small, as well as his own. I have loved having Jayden in my class and look forward to the rest of the school year together. Keep up the great work!

Grade Two - Mrs. Carlson. February's theme of honesty has been shown by Bristyl Mickolichek many times in the classroom. Bristyl is straightforward and always willing to tell the truth, even when it might be difficult. She continues to show that she lives truthfully in her words and actions. Bristyl can be trusted to follow our rules and expectations in the classroom. I am excited to call Bristyl our student of the month for February.

Grade Two - Mrs. Eastling. I nominate Willow Dalager for student of the month. She shows honesty throughout the day. She is honest in her work that she completes. She is a great leader on days I have subs because she can be counted on to help with daily activities. She is honest with herself in how she feels and can find effective ways to deal with her emotions. Willow is a great friend because she is kind, helpful, and always honest! Great job, Willow!

Grade Three - Mrs. LaMott. Congratulations to Matthew Bakeberg for being selected student of the month from Mrs. LaMott's classroom! Matthew has been honest and trustworthy all year long. He can help others follow our routines because he knows the expectations. Matthew is straightforward and always willing to tell the truth, even when it might be difficult. He continues to show that he lives truthfully in his words and actions. Congratulations Matthew and keep up the good work! :)

Grade Three - Mrs. Wadman. February's theme of honesty has been shown by Lily Hintz in many different ways. She shows honesty by being her true self and by always telling the truth! She shows others what it means to be a genuine student inside and outside of the classroom. Lily is having such an amazing year in 3rd grade! I am proud to name Lily, student of the month for February!

Grade Four - Mrs. Gallagher. The February student of the month for Mrs. Gallagher's class is Kel Norstedt. This month's theme is honesty. Kel shows honesty in his daily actions and kind words. Kel has many other positive character traits. Friends and teachers alike will tell you that Kel is polite, trustworthy, and dependable. Kel is a thoughtful learner and has the ability to concentrate deeply so as to always complete his best work. He participates appropriately in class and is a cooperative partner. He is a great role model for other students and we are glad to have him in our class. Congratulations Kel!

Grade Four - Mr. Goudy. For February's student of the month, I am nominating Stassi Spyra. Stassi has had an outstanding school year so far. She has been hard working in the classroom and showing a lot of growth, both as a person as well as a student. I can count on Stassi to help around the classroom and participate in our classroom discussions. When talking to her on an individual level, I get the sense that she is being open and honest with me. This allows me to give her more responsibility around the classroom and with her peers. I'm looking forward to seeing the growth continue throughout the rest of the year and am proud of what she has accomplished up until this point. Keep it up!
