Kindergarten - Mrs. Heuer. Haven Holker is the student of the month in Mrs. Heuer's kindergarten class. Haven comes to school every day ready to learn and with a positive disposition. She has worked really hard on learning kindergarten skills and has shown patience when things get difficult - but she keeps trying! She has shown a lot of growth in her academics through her hard work and perseverance. Haven is responsible for her actions and always tries to follow the classroom and school rules. She treats everyone with the greatest of respect. She is an amazing friend to have in our classroom! Congratulations, Haven!

Kindergarten - Miss Miller. The Student of the Month in Miss Miller's Kindergarten classroom is Elijah Pendleton. Elijah comes to school every day ready to learn the easy things and hard things. He is working hard on mastering our kindergarten skills and has shown perseverance when things are hard. Due to his perseverance and hard work, Elijah has made a lot of growth in his academics and continues to do so. Outside of academics, he is always following the classroom rules and is a great friend to his peers. He is a kind and encouraging friend and is ready to help when others need it. Congratulations Elijah!

Grade One - Miss Byrd/Mrs. Neumann. The January citizenship theme for the month is perseverance. Gemma Rasmussen is a student who puts forth her best effort into her school work. If an assignment or task she is working on becomes challenging, she will never give up. She is a student that is not afraid to ask for help. If she struggles on a word, passage, or a math problem she will try and figure it out using different strategies. She has a positive attitude even when faced with challenges. She bounces back quickly if she makes a mistake or something doesn't work out the way she wants it to. Gemma has the ability to keep going even when things get tough. Keep it up! "Congratulations" on being selected as the January student of the month.

Grade One - Mrs. Pavlenko. I would like to recognize Phillip Huston as my January Student of the Month. Upon entering our 1st grade classroom, you could look at Phillip and see his dedication to learning. Phillip works hard, even when something is a challenge for him, and encourages his classmates to do the same. He has shown impressive growth in all subjects so far this year, particularly in his writing and his reading-he is becoming an expert at sounding out words and writing them correctly and legibly during our daily UFLI lessons, and has been doing a great job reading his nightly Backpack Books! Phillip is kind to everyone he comes into contact with, and leads by example. He loves making connections to things at school he has already learned, and sharing that love with those around him! He is happy and ready to work. Phillip deserves to be Student of the Month for his perseverance and positive behavior-great job, Phillip!

Grade Two - Mrs. Carlson. January's theme of perseverance has been shown by Elesai Gorlov many times in the classroom. Elesai works through obstacles that he faces at school by asking questions and doing the best he can do each day. If something doesn't go well, he tries to find new solutions! He continues to work hard to become an independent problem solver. I am excited to call Elesai the student of the month for January!

Grade Two - Mrs. Eastling. I nominate Brock Thiemann for student of the month for perseverance. He works very hard in class. He is always participating and pushing himself to write neatly, add detail, or finish assignments. When Brock is working on something challenging he pushes himself to find a solution or work it out.

Grade Three - Mrs. LaMott. Congratulations to Dakota Rust for being selected student of the month from Mrs. LaMott's classroom! Dakota is a hard worker! She will always try her best, even when things get tough. When Dakota gets discouraged or upset, she finds a way to calm down and keep going - a perfect example of perseverance! Dakota is always looking to make progress on her goals, whether it be her multiplication facts or reading more books - she just keeps working! On top of working so hard, Dakota is also respectful of others, responsible for her actions, and a good friend! Congratulations Dakota and keep up the good work! :)

Grade Three - Mrs. Wadman. January's theme of perseverance has been shown by Vaeya Nelson in many different ways. She is always eager to learn and approaches every task with enthusiasm and dedication. Whether it's in math, reading, or science, Vaeya consistently demonstrates a strong work ethic and a positive attitude. She is also kind and respectful to her classmates, always willing to lend a helping hand when needed. She is having such an amazing year in 3rd grade! I am proud to name Vaeya student of the month for January!

Grade Four - Mrs. Gallagher. The January student of the month for Mrs. Gallagher's class is Evy Heck. This month's theme is perseverance. There are so many new challenges in fourth grade, and sometimes it can be overwhelming! There are multi-step math concepts and longer, more challenging stories to read. Evy does not give up when faced with a difficult task and is not afraid to ask for help. Evy shows self-control by waiting patiently to be called on in class while participating in an appropriate manner. Evy knows it is hard to stay focused when working with classmates, but she does her best to give her attention to that activity until it is complete. She is responsible about turning in her work as she completes it and always tries her best. We are so glad to have Evy in our class! Congratulations Evy!

Grade Four - Mr. Goudy. Dennis McCarthy is the student of the month for January. Dennis is making it well known from his actions that he is on a mission. The consistency that he displays in his effort and his relationships tells me that he wants his last year at Winsted Elementary to be special. Dennis participates on a regular basis in our classroom lessons and has really focused on staying positive when things get difficult. He has displayed leadership qualities in the hallways and other school locations as well. I think it's safe to say that Dennis is impacting us all in one way or another. Proud of you Dennis!
