

March Students of the Month – Cooperation

Kindergarten - Mrs. Heuer. Calvin Olson is the student of the month in Mrs. Heuer's kindergarten class for the theme of cooperation. Calvin is honest, helpful and thoughtful. He is patient in waiting for his turn and does not rush or get in the other children's way. He works well with everyone and is a help to his peers and to his teachers. He makes an effort to do what is right and fixes the problem if something is not right. He tries to be the best that he can be! Calvin shares a good sense of humor with us all and is able to just take things in stride. Keep up the great work! Congratulations, Calvin!

Kindergarten - Miss Miller. Mila Hendrickson is the student of the month in Miss Miller's kindergarten class. Mila is kind, patient, understanding, and thoughtful. She is patient in working through misunderstandings of a game, waiting her turn, and patiently helps another player when they don't understand the game. Mila is kind to everyone and works well with all of them. She also gives thoughtful answers to questions and shares them with the class. Mila has such a big heart that she shares with us all! Congratulations Mila! Keep being yourself!

Grade One - Miss Byrd/Mrs. Neumann. Our citizenship theme for the month of March is COOPERATION. Cooperation is important in the classroom, around the school, and in daily life. Lucy Schaust is being recognized in Miss Byrd's classroom for demonstrating this citizenship trait. In the classroom, Lucy is very good about cooperating. She will work to solve a problem, complete a challenge, or play together with others. She knows how to take turns, share ideas/materials, and be flexible. Lucy is respectful and always willing to help where needed. She listens to others and has a positive attitude towards school. Thank you for being a cooperative student at Winsted Elementary! You Shine!

Grade One - Mrs. Pavlenko. I would like to nominate Kobe Berg for my March Student of the Month. Kobe is a great friend and a terrific team player. He does a fine job of working cooperatively, whether it's reading his close reader and circling sound patterns with a partner during Reading, completing addition and subtraction or money activities together during Math block, or being especially kind to a friend who's having a hard day, Kobe knows that cooperating means lending a helping hand if someone needs it. His peers and I would like to recognize Kobe for a job well done. Way to work hard, Kobe! Super job!

Grade Two - Mrs. Carlson. March's theme of cooperation has been shown by Sophia Lopez-Navarro frequently in the classroom. Sophia is always willing to do what is asked of her. She never complains about the group arrangements that are given, and she works well with others. Sophia is engaged in classroom activities. She is attentive, cooperative, and withholds the ability to compromise. I am proud to call Sophia the student of the month for March.

Grade Two - Mrs. Eastling. I nominate Madisyn Ward for student of the month for cooperation. She consistently works well with everyone in my class. She is helpful and kind to everyone when working in groups. Madisyn shows sportsmanship when playing games and is a good sport when she wins or loses. Great job, Madisyn!

Grade Three - Mrs. LaMott. Congratulations to Elizabeth Marquette for being selected student of the month from Mrs. LaMott's classroom! Elizabeth is honest, kind, helpful, and thoughtful. She is patient while waiting her turn and does not rush on her assignments. Elizabeth cooperates with her classmates and never shies away from helping out. She loves to talk about her ideas and welcomes input from the other students. Elizabeth always tries to be the best that she can be and is a hard-working learner! Congratulations Elizabeth and keep up the good work! :)

Grade Three - Mrs. Wadman. March's theme of cooperation has been shown by Jayden Frate in many different ways. Jayden is always willing to give a helping hand to any classmate in the classroom or around the school. He shows cooperation by showing others how to take turns when it comes to playing games. Jayden also influences others in the class to work together in productive ways to solve any conflict that may arise! Jayden is having such an amazing year in 3rd grade! I am proud to name Jayden student of the month for March!

Grade Four - Mrs. Gallagher. The March student of the month for Mrs. Gallagher's class is Gentry Quast. This month's theme is cooperation. Gentry shows cooperation when he works with partners in the classroom by staying on task and working together. He shows self-discipline by waiting patiently to be called on in class while participating in an appropriate manner. He shows respect by working quietly and staying focused on his work. When faced with difficult decisions, he knows right from wrong. Friends and teachers alike will tell you that Gentry is polite and trustworthy. He is a great role model for other students, and we are so glad to have Gentry in our class. Congratulations Gentry!

Grade Four - Mr. Goudy. Arabella Mounsdon is the student of the month for March. She cooperates with her classmates and teachers regularly. She is very flexible and doesn't mind working with a variety of personalities or individuals. She is a hard worker and always tries to do her best. I never see or hear her involved in any conflicts with her classmates, friends, or neighbors. She was a big part of organizing a group building my classroom door decoration. Congratulations Bella!
