

October Students of the Month – Responsibility

Kindergarten - Mrs. Heuer. Trey Wroge is the student of the month in Mrs. Heuer's kindergarten class for responsibility. Trey is very responsible in our classroom. He listens to the teachers, follows directions and is responsible for taking care of his needs. He puts forth great effort in learning as much as he can and he does his best at learning new skills and concepts that are taught. Trey always tries to do what is right and tries to make the best choices for himself. Trey offers help to his classmates when it's needed. He has a positive outlook towards school and life with a fun-loving attitude that he shares with all of us and we appreciate it! Congratulations, Trey!

Kindergarten - Miss Miller. McCoy Quast is the student of the month in Miss Miller's class. McCoy demonstrates responsibility by getting his work done while following directions. He is very responsible in our classroom and shows this by listening to the teachers, following directions, and always trying his best. McCoy is constantly trying to do what is right and makes good choices along the way. He has a positive, kind, and fun attitude throughout the day that's shared with those around him. Congratulations McCoy!

Grade One - Mrs. Adams. Anthony Ritter Jr. is the Student of the Month in Mrs. Adams' classroom. Anthony shows responsibility by taking care of his belongings and he also takes very good care of our classroom materials. He also uses his time wisely, finishes his classwork, follows directions, and knows what to do if he has extra time. Anthony is also responsible for his actions and is a great friend. Keep up the great work Anthony!

Grade One - Mrs. Pavlenko. I would like to recognize Olivia Eastling as my October Student of the Month. Olivia is wonderful at showing responsibility, whether it is putting forth her best effort in her classwork, working hard at keeping her materials organized, or participating during instruction. She also shows how responsible she is by helping her friends if they have a question or are struggling, especially during Math Block. She often invites classmates to work with her, and helps her teachers by going above and beyond what is expected, particularly with taking care of classroom materials (sometimes, she will ask to organize our marker bin during Free Choice time, rather than play)! Olivia begins each day, ready for class, and ends each day ready to go home and share all that she has learned. She is dependable and can be trusted to do whatever is necessary, whether it is assisting her classmates with stacking their chairs at the end of the day, tidying up the classroom or always offering a helping hand. She shows how responsible she is by leading by example, which is why I would like to give Olivia a shout out on a job well done!

Grade Two - Mrs. Carlson. October's theme of responsibility has been shown by Brayden Baumann many times in and out of the classroom. Brayden takes responsibility for his jobs in the classroom. Brayden always turns his homework in on time and reminds his teacher of items he needs to complete. Brayden shows that he can be held accountable for his actions. He is able to make the right decisions even when someone is not watching him. Brayden takes care of his items and can be trusted! I am proud to call Brayden the student of the month for October.

Grade Two - Mrs. Eastling. I nominate Benson Lindstrom for student of the month for Responsibility. Benson is a student who is on task during lessons. He participates, asks questions, and is engaged throughout it all. When given the opportunity to work with partners, small groups, or choice seating he works hard, is respectful, and completes all his work. He is a good listener to others, and I can count on him when I need help with something.

Grade Three - Mrs. LaMott. Congratulations to Landen Simonson for being selected student of the month from Mrs. LaMott's classroom! Landen is great at showing responsibility, whether it is through the effort he puts into his work, keeping his materials organized, or participating during lessons. He always has his homework turned in on time and is very dependable! Landen also shows how responsible he is by helping others when it is appropriate. He knows right from wrong and works hard every day to make good choices. Congratulations Landen and keep up the good work! :)

Grade Three - Mrs. Wadman. October's theme of responsibility has been shown by Kaia Olson! She comes to class each day ready to learn, stays focused during lessons, and always puts forth her best effort. Kaia takes ownership of her work, completes assignments on time, and helps keep our classroom organized and on task. She is a wonderful example of what it means to be responsible, and we are so proud of her! With her positive attitude and strong work ethic, Kaia is set up for an amazing year in third grade!

Grade Four - Mrs. Gallagher. The October Student of the Month for Mrs. Gallagher's class is Matt Bakeberg. There are many ways in which Matt demonstrates responsibility. He is very good about completing and turning in his assignments in a timely manner. He works quietly and always does his best work. Matt makes sure his materials are put away appropriately and can easily find what he needs to do his work. Friends and teachers alike will tell you that Matt is a great citizen in our school. He is polite, kind, and has a great attitude about school. Matt also shows other areas of greatness. He shows great self-discipline by waiting patiently to be called on in class while also participating in an appropriate manner. He works well with partners in the classroom and playing with others on the playground. Matt is always one of the first students to be ready for whatever is coming up next because he listens so closely to directions. He is a great role model! We love having Matt in our class. Congratulations Matt!

Grade Four - Mr. Goudy. The student of the month for October is Osdanil Gutierrez Murrillo. This is Osdanil's first year at Winsted Elementary and he has done an amazing job adjusting to his new surroundings. Osdanil has learned the classroom routines and has developed a good rapport with his classmates and teachers. One really cool thing about Osdanil is that he can speak multiple languages and helps younger Spanish speakers in their classrooms in the mornings. He doesn't need to be reminded to go down there because he takes this responsibility very seriously. He asks questions when he doesn't understand and is doing a great job on his Talk.Read.Play assignments. Keep up the great work Osdanil!
