PRESENTATIONS AND MEETINGS

Dr. Kimberly O'Brien, PhD, LICSW

Session 1 8:15–9:00

Sport provides an ideal environment for adolescents to hone their leadership skills, develop their identity, and build resilience. Pressure, self-doubt, and perfectionism frequently affect students in high-achieving environments and can hijack their athletic performance and overall mental health. Student-athletes are rarely taught what to do in those critical moments to manage difficult emotions and work through adversity. Coaches and athletic directors are in a unique position to help student-athletes build these skills so they can flourish as leaders and impact their communities in a powerful way. Dr. Kimberly O'Brien shares tactics from her book, Mentality Wins, which outlines four core skills student-athletes must build to develop a strong and healthy mentality: the ability to focus, get into a flow state, finish strong no matter what, and develop the self-confidence to flourish in high pressure environments. Attendees will learn concrete skills and techniques to teach student-athletes regarding how to prepare for big moments, respond to setbacks, and build resilience.

Session 2 11:15–12:00

Kim O'Brien, PhD, LICSW will moderate a discussion about mindset, resilience, identity, and leadership with former NEPSAC student-athletes who are currently competing or committed to compete in college athletics

Middle School Athletic Directors Meeting 12:15–1:00

Courtney Callanan
Rob Feingold

This session is an opportunity for Middle School Athletic Directors to gather and discuss pertinent issues faced at the middle school level. Most notably, this is a time to discuss middle school sport-specific rule changes, areas of concern, and other relevant topics of the day. If you have agenda items you would like to be discussed by the group; please send them to Rob or Courtney.

Tour of Pan Athletic Center with Stanmar Design & Construction 9:30 and 12:30

Stanmar

Representatives from Stanmar will provide tours of the Pan Athletic Center that will house a swimming and diving complex, dance studios, wrestling facilities, locker rooms, and the Athletics Hall of Honor.

PRESENTER

Dr. Kimberly O'Brien PhD, LICSW

Dr. Kimberly O'Brien is the founder and director of Unlimited Resilience, LLC, a group mental health practice designed for athletes by athletes, and co-founder and co-director of Athletes Better Together, LLC, an athlete peer mentoring program. She is also a research and training consultant at the Behavioral Research & Training Institute at Rutgers University. Dr. O'Brien received her BA from Harvard University ('00), where she was a four-year member and co-captain of the hockey team which won a National Championship in 1999. She obtained her MSW ('05) and PhD ('11) from Boston College and completed her postdoctoral fellowship ('13) at Brown University. Her research is focused on intervention development for suicidal adolescents and their families, with additional specializations in substance use, interventions which utilize technology, and athlete mental health and suicide prevention. Dr. O'Brien has published on adolescent suicide, substance use, and mental health, and was awarded the Young Investigator Research Award from the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention in 2019. She is also co-author of the 2026 book Mentality Wins: The Athlete's Playbook for Thriving in Sport and Life, as well as the 2021 book Emotionally Naked: A Teacher's Guide to Preventing Suicide and Recognizing Students at Risk. Dr. O'Brien works with high school and college individuals and teams across the country on mental health, mental skills, and suicide bereavement and prevention. She continues to stay involved in athletics as she is the head coach of the Walpole High School girls' hockey team and plays hockey, golf, pickleball, and platform tennis.

Distinguished Service Award

BOB HOWE

Deerfield Academy, Loomis Chaffee School ’80, Millbrook School

Bob Howe spent the first 19 years of his life living on the campus of Loomis Chaffee as a faculty child and student, graduating in 1980. His parents, Jane and Glover, met as students at Chaffee and Loomis before the schools merged. After earning a degree in History from Hamilton College—where he played soccer, hockey, and lacrosse all four years, served as captain of all three teams during his junior and senior years, and still holds the career and season assist records in lacrosse—Bob worked as a carpenter for Dewdney Builders in southern Vermont from 1984 to 1986, before launching his own business, Howe Builders, where he built custom homes and renovations until 1992.

In 1992, while under contract to build a house for his former teacher and coach—Millbrook School Head of School Drew Casertano—Bob joined the faculty at Millbrook School. He served as the Physical Plant Director and Head Hockey Coach until 2004. During their time at Millbrook, his wife Amanda taught English, ESL, and German.

Bob returned to his alma mater, Loomis Chaffee, in 2004 to serve as the Director of Athletics. In 2016, he was honored as the recipient of the Founders League’s M.D. Nadal Award for sportsmanship. Later that year, he accepted the position of Director of Athletics at Deerfield Academy in Deerfield, Massachusetts.

In addition to his school leadership roles, Bob served as the President of the New England Preparatory School Athletic Council (NEPSAC) from 2017 to 2019 and joined the Bement Board of Trustees in 2017.

Bob is deeply proud of his supportive family and everything they share together. His wife, Amanda, taught and inspired students across all 34 years of his career. Their four daughters have also achieved remarkable milestones:

- Samantha (27) is pursuing an ongoing career as a professional ballet dancer.
- Erin (25) works as a building inspector in Telluride, Colorado, while continuing to play and coach hockey.
- Kelly (23) holds the record at William Smith College for the most hockey games played in a four-year career, having served as assistant captain her junior year and captain her senior year.
- Camryn (23) is completing her Doctorate of Occupational Therapy at Quinnipiac University next year; she recently ran the Hartford Marathon, teaches spin classes, and earned numerous leadership awards for her involvement in Greek life.

For a deeper reflection on his career and family life at Deerfield Academy, you can watch The Howes | We Are Deerfield, which offers firsthand insight into their time serving independent school communities.

Martin William Souders Memorial Award

MEGHAN DUGGAN

Cushing Academy '06

Meghan Duggan is a champion with proven success at the highest levels of hockey and a change maker who uses her platform to help hockey evolve into the most empowering version of itself.

Over a 14-year career with Team USA, Meghan competed in 3 Winter Olympic Games (2010, 2014, & 2018) and won 3 Olympic medals, including the first Olympic Gold in 20 years—an achievement that occurred under her leadership as Captain. She became a member of the U.S. WNT in 2007 and served as Team Captain starting in 2013. Additionally, she won 7 IIHF Women's World Championship Gold medals, which is tied for the 4th most won all-time.

A native of Danvers, MA, she is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin (B.S. in Biology) where she won 3 NCAA National Championships, led the nation in scoring her senior year and was named the Patty Kazmaier memorial award winner as the top women's collegiate athlete. She was inducted into the University of Wisconsin Sports Hall of Fame in 2021 & named to the WCHA All Time Conference Teams during their 20th (2019) and 25th (2023) anniversary celebrations.

Off the ice, Meghan is committed to promoting equality in the game and creating opportunities for the next generation. In 2017, she led a successful strike by the 2016-17 U.S. WNT versus her national governing body, USA Hockey to achieve gender-equitable treatment for the team in advance of the 2017 IIHF Women's World Championship in Plymouth, MI.

Currently, Meghan advises the National Hockey League's diversity and inclusion initiatives as a member of the NHL's Player Inclusion Committee (since 2020), which aims to foster empowering culture change for male and female professional players. She has served previously as an athlete director, section member and member of the Board of Directors for USA Hockey. She was elevated to the Executive Committee at USA Hockey 2020-23.

In 2018, Meghan became a member of the Women's Sports Foundation (WSF) Athlete Advisory Panel. She furthered the engagement with WSF in 2020, when she was voted onto the WSF Board of Trustees, which establishes fiscal policy, assists in the acquisition of adequate financial and human resources and oversees the accomplishment of the Foundation goals and objectives. She was elected President of the WSF in 2022 and was honored to be given a second term through the end of 2023.

In 2019, Meghan became an inaugural member of the Professional Women's Hockey Players' Association. The PWHPA's mission is to promote, advance and support a single, viable professional women's hockey league in North America—one that showcases the game in a sustainable manner via sales, marketing, infrastructure and collaborations with like-minded organizations to make hockey more inclusive for women today and girls of the next generation. Today, we see the fruits of this collective labor with the creation of the Professional Women's Hockey League (PWHL) which launched in January 2024. Today, she serves part time as a hockey operations consultant and on the player safety committee.

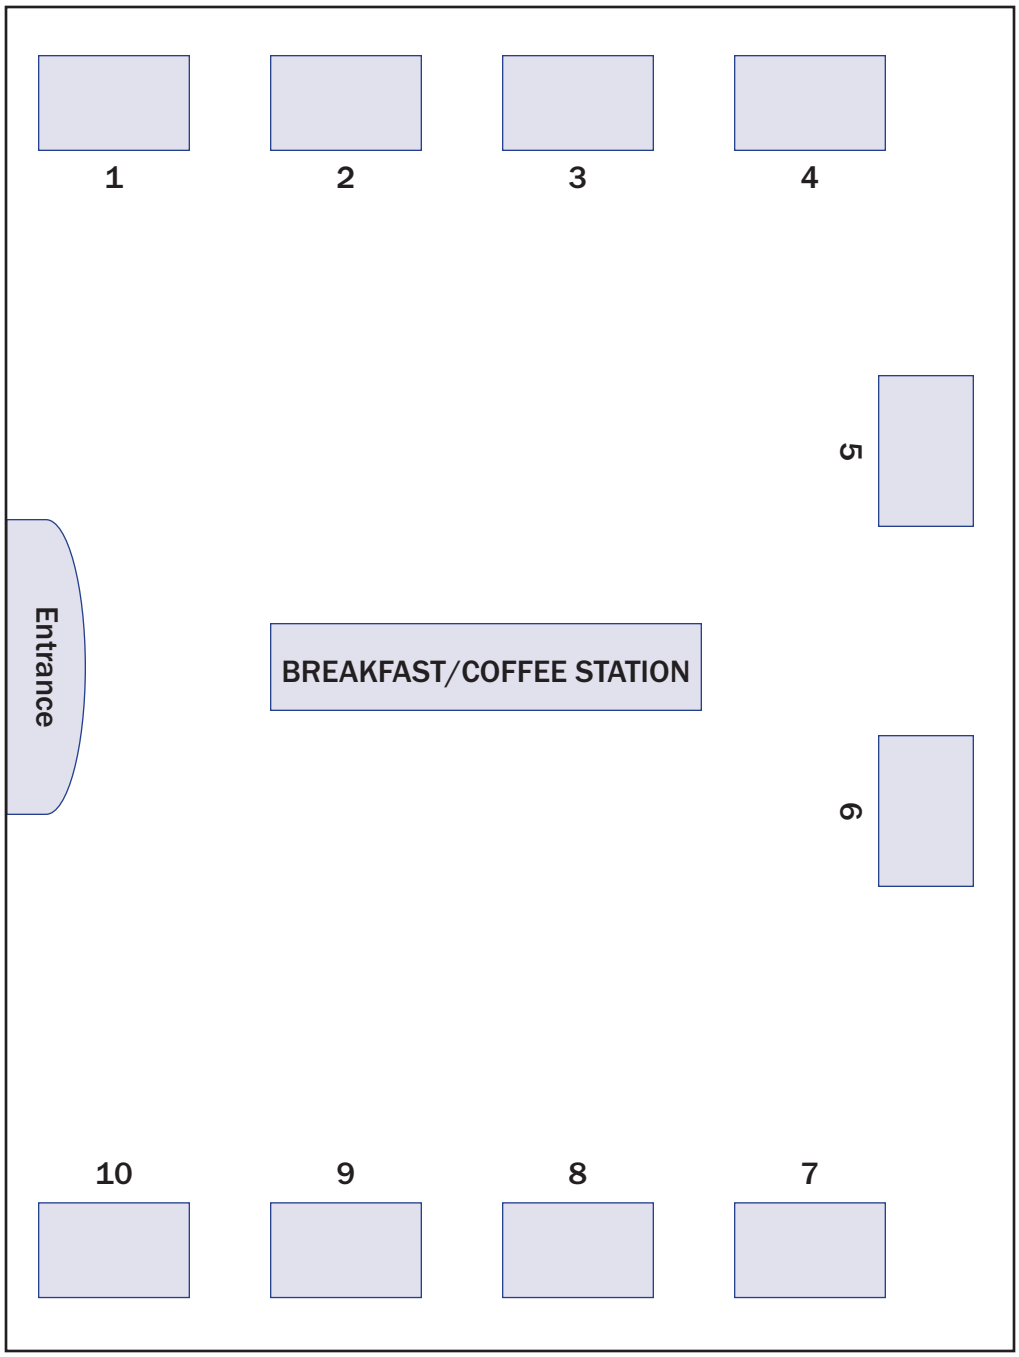

Meghan officially retired from playing hockey on October 13, 2020. She continues to lend her voice to a variety of social causes and is a keynote speaker on topics including gender equality/women's empowerment, resilience, leadership and managing teams, LGBTQ+ advocacy, teamwork, diversity &inclusion, allyship, performance under pressure, goal-setting and confidence from the board room to the playing field. Additionally, she works with young athletes through team building exercises, motivational discussions and other opportunities that help develop them into the athletes, teammates and people that they are striving to be.

Meghan was hired by the New Jersey Devils as their Manager of Player Development in May of 2021 and after the conclusion of her first season promoted to Director of Player Development in 2022. Her role includes managing all levels of the Devils development department evaluating all on-ice and office information. She drives the organization's plans on the design, improvement and execution of progress plans for all players in the system. This assessment of all AHL players and draft prospects includes assessments through in-person and video scouting as well as coordinate the work of the athlete care group with the development of the organization's prospects.

In May of 2026, Meghan achieved a major career milestone by leaving the Devils and becoming the inaugural General Manager for the PWHL's expansion franchise in Hamilton, Ontario. This team is set to kick off its first season in December 2026 at TD Coliseum.

Away from the rink, Meghan and her wife Gillian (a 3x Olympic Gold medalist for Canada) have three kids George, Olivia and Sophie, and currently reside in Toronto, ON.

Stanmar

321 Commonwealth Rd, Ste 201, Wayland MA 01778

Stanmar - The Official Planning, Design, and Construction Partner of NEPSAC. Stanmar recently partnered with Worcester Academy to plan, design, and build the new Capozzoli Athletic Center, featuring a natatorium and multi-court gymnasium, delivered on time and on budget with no Stanmar-initiated change orders. Today, our team is also working with Buckingham Browne & Nichols (BB&N), the Holderness School, and the Fenn School on major campus and athletic facility initiatives. With over 80 completed athletic facilities, Stanmar helps independent schools turn athletic facility goals into realistic, achievable projects. Our understanding of construction costs and delivery allows us to guide planning and design decisions around real-world budgets from the start. By evaluating feasibility, scope, funding, and long-term priorities early in the process, Stanmar helps schools make informed decisions, align stakeholders, and move forward with projects that can be successfully delivered. As part of our NEPSAC partnership, member schools considering an athletic facility project can receive a complimentary project evaluation from the Stanmar team.

HOW NEPSAC BEGAN

December 7, 1941, was a quiet Sunday. For New England independent schools the date fell in that relaxed time between athletic seasons with only examinations and Christmas holidays in the offing. The dramatic and shocking report of the bombing of Pearl Harbor, as carried on the radio, shattered the mood of the day and the season so drastically that it would be years before a comparable atmosphere would be recaptured. The news fell with special poignancy upon boys' schools. As faculty met their students for dinner that night or in their classes the next morning, they were profoundly aware that the news they had so recently heard had altered irrevocably the lives and futures of their students and of their younger colleagues.

School administrations turned at once to the great question as to how they best could prepare their students for the ordeals which these young men were likely to face and at the same time provide the conventional education which would permit them to take their place in society after the war. Confidence in the principles of a liberal education held. Except for a general policy of speeding up the educational process, few radical changes were made. However, since training programs in the armed services put great emphasis on physical fitness, directors of athletics and coaches had special responsibilities. They too, felt that team competition provided the best incentive to physical fitness; hence interscholastic competition should continue and indeed, be augmented if possible.

The dream of business as usual did not last long. In early April of 1942 Herbert G. Stokinger, Director of Athletics at Milton Academy, saw in a Boston newspaper a summary of governmental regulations applying to bus companies. To his consternation he learned that transportation companies could no longer charter buses for athletic trips without surrendering any right to replacement tires for buses so chartered. Since this regulation was a direct and obvious threat to all interscholastic athletic competition, Stoky acted promptly. He telephoned his opposite numbers, Martin W. Souders of Exeter, Eliot T. Putnam of Noble and Greenough, and J. Leo Foley of Roxbury Latin; they all agreed to meet at Stoky's house for a consultation. The four men at that meeting were of one mind: there was an urgent need for an immediate gathering of representatives of as many schools as possible to determine whether interscholastic athletics could indeed continue, how athletic programs could be modified under the circumstances, and how best to meet the inevitable shortages of equipment which loomed in the future. At the urging of this ad hoc committee, Stoky consulted the invaluable Porter Sargent handbook and sent out an invitation to all schools within a reasonable distance of Boston to attend a meeting at the Harvard Club on Saturday, April 11, 1942.

Twenty-three schools sent representatives to the meeting, and five other schools expressed their interest by submitting written reports on how they proposed to adapt their programs to the stringent governmental regulations necessitated by the war effort. As the moving spirit behind the gathering, Herbert Stokinger presided with Eliot Putnam acting as secretary for the meeting. After a brief statement from a representative of each school present as to how it proposed to deal with interscholastic competition, Eliot Putnam reported these general conclusions:

A. In any change of policy, first consideration should obviously be given to the spirit in which restrictions have been imposed.

B. Attempt to go ahead with regular schedules, canceling such long trips as demand too great an expense (train, taxis, etc.) or which seem to call on an inadvisable and unwarranted demand on private cars.

C. Bear in mind at all times the great value of interscholastic games, both from the competitive point of view, and as a pacesetter for school morale.

D. Proceed cautiously as regards transportation by private cars, if not covered by proper insurance.

E. Make every effort to strengthen the intramural program in the lower classes, canceling all interscholastic competition when there is any doubt as to its advisability.

Martin Souders then remarked on what he considered to be a long-felt need for a permanent organization among the independent schools, an organization which would meet periodically for discussion, legislation, and friendly interchange of ideas. He cited the advantages enjoyed by existing college and public school organizations. His suggestion was unanimously approved, and the following officers were elected:

President	Martin W. Souders	Phillips Exeter
Vice-President	J. Leo Foley	Roxbury Latin
Vice-President	Eliot T. Putnam	Noble & Greenough
Sec.-Treasurer	Herbert G. Stokinger	Milton
