MR. JOHNSON'S MINUTE...

I hope everyone is having a great start to the school year! The school as a whole is doing an awesome job as we move towards finishing the first three weeks of school

At Hill City Schools, our goals are to make sure we stay in-person and everyone stays safe in our building and in our community. There may be changes throughout this year, but we will do our absolute best to accomplish our goals.

There are lots of cool things happening at Hill City Schools.

-We have built a new Maker Space room, full of legos, art supplies, engineering activities, programming devices, etc. where students can get a hands-on education.

-Working with Americorp, we have added another tutor with the addition of a math

K-3 position. The Americorp tutors work with students in reading and math to help them continue to grow.

-Homecoming is coming back this year! The Swarm is working on putting together an awesome week for our students to enjoy.

-PBIS is continuing to grow and expand. I am looking forward to continuing to play dodgeball and Mario Kart with the students that continue to work hard and be great examples of Hornet leaders.

-Our athletic teams are having great seasons with strong numbers in each program. Cross country is continuing to improve and students are setting new personal records each meet. Varsity volleyball won the Hill City volleyball tournament and is currently 8-4. The varsity football team is 2-1, after beating South Ridge and Cromwell.

-I hope everyone understands how hard our staff is working and the excellent job they do every year. If you see them at events or in the community, please thank them for everything we do.

-The best things happening at school are seeing all the students excited to come to school. We truly have some of the best students in the state and I am so lucky to get to know each of them. The students in Hill City reflect how wonderful our community is!

Thank you for the start to another great school year!
Go Storm and Go Hornets!

Practical Suggestions for Building Assets in Your Child

FAST FACTS

ASSET
TYPE #3:
Boundaries
and Expectations

The more your child has clear, consistent boundaries and high expectations, the more likely he or she will grow up healthy.

51%
of youth surveyed by Search Institute experience at least three of the six boundaries and expectations assets.*

What Are Assets?

Assets are 40 key building blocks to help kids succeed.

* Based on Search Institute survey of almost 100,000 6th- to 12th-grade youth throughout the United States.

The Importance of Boundaries and Expectations

Search Institute researchers found that young people have fewer boundaries as they get older. While it's normal and healthy for teenagers to take more responsibility for themselves as they grow, the problem is that not enough young people have clear boundaries in the first place. Positive peer influence is one boundary asset (see 6 Key Areas of Boundaries and Expectations below) that can help youth make good decisions for themselves. But while 82% of 6th graders report that their best friends model responsible behavior, only 49% of 12th graders do.

But why are boundaries important? Sometimes a life without limits—eating, sleeping, playing, and working whenever we want—sounds appealing. Most of us realize, however, that this type of life would be chaotic. No one would know what to expect, no one would seem to care (except about themselves), and we would probably end up feeling frustrated most of the time.

Boundaries are important to our children because they give clear messages about what's expected. Every day young people face many options and choices. Without boundaries to guide them, they may feel unsure and confused—and make unhealthy decisions. With boundaries, they have the supports that help them choose wisely and grow up healthy.

Watch the next six newsletters for more ideas on building boundaries and expectations assets!

Helpful Hints

Tips that make boundaries easier:

- Discuss boundaries with teachers, coaches, employers, clergy, and adults in other places where your child goes so that all boundaries are consistent.
- When you're unsure about setting and enforcing boundaries, seek advice from another parent or a teacher.
- Involve your children in family meetings to discuss boundaries and what happens when boundaries are violated.
- Think of boundaries as something positive rather than something negative!

6 Key Areas of Boundaries and Expectations

Search Institute researchers have identified six assets in the area of boundaries and expectations that are crucial for helping young people grow up healthy. Check your family's areas of strength:

- Family boundaries—Family has clear rules and consequences, and monitors the young person's whereabouts.
- School boundaries—School provides clear rules and consequences.
- Neighborhood boundaries—Neighbors take responsibility for monitoring young people's behavior.
- Adult role models—Parent(s) and other adults model responsible behavior.
- Positive peer influence—Young person's best friends model responsible behavior.
- High expectations—Both parent(s) and teachers encourage the young person to do well.

Boundaries Through the Years

Age Ways to Set and Uphold Boundaries for Your Child

- 0-1 Know that children at this age don't intentionally violate standards.
Distract your child from inappropriate behaviors and draw attention to appropriate ones.
- 2-3 Enforce boundaries consistently so children learn them more easily.
Give simple, understandable boundaries, such as "Don't bite" or "Be quiet."
- 4-5 Don't just tell your child what and what not to do. Demonstrate appropriate ways of behaving.
Be calm when your child acts out in highly emotional ways.
- 6-10 Be firm about safety boundaries.
Be consistent with the consequences for violating boundaries.
- 11-15 Negotiate new boundaries as your child grows older.
Be patient, calm, and consistent as young adolescents test the boundaries you set.
- 16-18 Respect growing privacy needs while still showing interest in your teenager's activities and friends.
Help your teenager think about future goals, and the discipline and boundaries required to reach them.

Quick Tip:
Set clear boundaries and expect the best.

FINAL WORD

"Children need a consistent, positive approach to become emotionally mature. Be clear about what behaviors are acceptable and what behaviors are unacceptable."—Alice S. Honig, author of Love & Learn, a parenting book

The 4 Cs of Boundaries and Expectations

Clear—Everyone should know what to expect.

Concise—The shorter the explanation, the better.

Creative—Kids respond better when boundaries are clever and creative.

Consistent—Standards are more likely to be honored when you consistently uphold them.
