All participants will be issued a certificate at the end of the class. You must have a valid driver's license with you at the beginning of the class so that a certificate can be issued.

Practical Suggestions for Building Assets in Your Child

FAST FACTS

ASSET #11:
Family Boundaries

Youth are more likely to grow up healthy when families have clear rules and consequences, and monitor young people's whereabouts.

43%
of youth surveyed by Search Institute have this asset in their lives.*

What Are Assets?

Assets are 40 key building blocks to help kids succeed. "Family boundaries" is one of six boundaries and expectations assets.

* Based on Search Institute surveys of almost 100,000 kids in 12th-grade youth throughout the United States.

Clear, Concise Boundaries

Author Stephen Covey knows about the importance of setting and talking about boundaries and expectations. At a family meeting to discuss who would do which chores, Covey's seven-year-old son volunteered to care for the lawn.

Dad gave the boy a tour of the yard and pointed out which neighbor's yard he wanted the lawn to most look like. He and his son then agreed on two concise, clear expectations: clean and green.

After two weeks, Dad asked his son about the lawn. "It's fine," the boy replied, even though his dad knew he had done nothing to take care of it.

"Let's walk around the yard together and you can show me how it's going," Dad replied.

So they walked around the yard. It was obviously in bad shape, and the boy became upset. "It's so hard, Dad," he said. Dad didn't respond but wondered, "How hard is it not to do something?"

Dad then reminded his son that he—not Dad—was in charge of the yard, but he had a few minutes to help out if the boy wanted it. The two then cleaned up the yard. When they were done, the yard was clean and green.

Over the summer, the son only asked his dad to help him a few more times and did the rest himself. The boundaries were clear. The expectations were clear, and the seven-year-old succeeded at keeping the yard clean and green.

time together

Three ways to set boundaries together with your child:

1. Observe the boundaries of other families (neighbors, television families, etc.). Discuss what's appropriate and what's not for your family and why.
2. Post your family boundaries on the refrigerator. Have only five or six. Make sure they are concise and clear, and apply to everyone—not just kids.
3. Meet monthly to discuss boundaries. Are they fair? Do they still fit? Do they reflect the values and principles you have? Adjust them if you need to.

Helpful Hints

Tips that make setting boundaries easier:

- Make them positive. Say what you expect along with what you don't want.
- Strive for concise standards. Have each boundary be five words or less.
- Adjust boundaries as your child becomes older, but know that even 18-year-olds need guidelines.
- Set and follow boundaries for yourself. Be a role model. Admit when you fail.

Dos and Don'ts of Discipline

Do

- Notice and comment when your child does something well. Be specific.
- Give your child your full attention, be affectionate, and calmly state how your child violated a boundary.
- Respond as quickly as you notice a violation.
- Respond consistently.
- Be firm about discipline and suggest better behavior.
- Be consistent by setting the same standards for boys as for girls.

Don't

- Only notice your child when he or she violates a standard.
- Use threats.
- Use physical punishment.
- Attack or ridicule your child.
- Manipulate your child with shame, humiliation, or guilt.
- Use labels, such as 'You're lazy' or 'You're such a slob.'
- Notice the violated rule sometimes and not others.

Quick Tip:
Tell your children
why you chose the boundaries you have.

talk together

Questions to discuss with your child:

- Is our family too lenient, too harsh, or just right in enforcing boundaries? Why?
- What important lesson have you learned after violating a boundary?
- When has discipline felt more like punishment than teaching?

FINAL WORD

"The external structure parents provide for their children ... helps children develop their own internal structure of self-discipline for taking care of themselves and other people."
