Hill City Weight Room Gets an Overhaul

What do you get when you mix a few gallons of paint, an AD with a vision, the Art Club, Home Depot volunteers, and one weekend? A weight room overhaul.

When school ended on Friday, March 8, the art club met up with six volunteers that drove down from the Home Depot in Grand Rapids. These volunteers came equipped with gallons of purple and black paint, rollers, and brushes. Home Depot not only sent a crew of volunteers, they also donated all of the paint necessary to transform our weight room. They spent the next few hours covering cream paint with Hornet purple.

The fun continued on Saturday and Sunday when the Art Club returned to do touch ups, add quotes to the walls, and paint an HC mural on the back wall.

Monday morning when the Football and Volleyball players arrived for their early morning workout, they were greeted by a brand new space. Everyone was pleased with the finished weight room.

A HUGE thank you to all the volunteers that made this possible!!

Kindergarten Round Up

The annual Kindergarten Round-Up at the Hill City School is scheduled for Tuesday, April 23, 2013.

All children in the district who will be five years of age before September 1, 2013, are eligible to attend Kindergarten. Parents will be contacted by letter with details about the activities planned for the day. If you are new to the district or have not been contacted with a time by April 12, please call the school at 697-2394 and let us know.

This is an important day in the lives of these children and their parents. The children will meet their fellow classmates and their teacher; the parents will receive information to help them get their kindergarten child off to a good start.

We are looking forward to meeting all of you!

Hill City High School Assembly

Jack Sparks is a seedy, wise-cracking private eye. Anyone can tell he's a detective just by looking at his jacket. And he knows just how to handle his latest job, protecting Heather Pallfeather, whose father died rather mysteriously. The will is to be read at midnight, but which "will" will it be? The one substituted by the ex-con son-in-law? Or the one switched by the crazy aunt? Even the butler is a suspect since he carries a gun and seems to know more than he's telling. Heather's mother, Mirium, seems a bit batty, but she has a plan of her own. Dead bodies pile up like firewood as Jack tries to unravel just who is killing all the Pallfeathers, and he only has until midnight. Unfortunately, the prime suspect is Jack himself. Throw in a lady of mystery, twins who are never seen together, and a thunderstorm, and Jack comes to the conclusion that murder runs in the family.

This hilarious play is being presented by the brand new Hill City High School Theatre Troupe. Performances will be in the Hill City High School Assembly at 7:00 pm, Friday, April 26 and Saturday, April 27, with a matinee performance at 2:00 pm, Sunday, April 28, 2013. All performances are free of charge, but donations are appreciated. Seating is limited. For more information, contact Stanley Mikles at 218-697-2394, extension 126.

Practical Suggestions for Building Assets in Your Child

FAST FACTS

ASSET
TYPE #1:
Support

The more love, support, and adult contacts a child has, the more likely he or she is to grow up healthy.

41%
of youth surveyed by Search Institute experience at least three of the six support assets.*

What Are Assets?

Assets are 40 key building blocks to help kids succeed.

* Based on Search Institute surveys of almost 100,000 6th- to 12th-grade youth throughout the United States.

The Nurturing Nature of Support

Who are the champion supporters in your life?

These champions are important. They cheer us on when things go well. They stick with us when life throws us a curve ball. They listen. They ask questions. They smile. They hug. They're people we enjoy being around.

What kind of a champion are you for your child? Are you a fair-weather supporter? A rain-or-shine supporter? What's your unique way of supporting and loving your child?

Your love and support for your child are critical. But you can't go it alone. You need others. Your child needs others. How supported and cared for does your child feel by teachers, neighbors, coaches, grandparents, aunts, uncles, parents of their friends, youth workers, and mentors? These other key adults are important players in helping your child jump over the hurdles in life. In fact, the more supportive adults your child has, the better. And by nurturing and loving all the children in our communities, we help them grow to be loving, caring people themselves.

Look for future newsletters for details on all six support assets!

6 Key Areas of Support

Search Institute researchers have identified six support assets that are crucial for helping young people grow up healthy. Check the areas of strength in your child's life.

- Family support—Family life provides high levels of love and support.
- Positive family communication—You and your child communicate positively, and your child is willing to seek you out for advice and counsel.
- Other adult relationships—Your child receives support from three or more non-parent adults.

- Caring neighborhood—Your child experiences caring neighbors.
- Caring school climate—School provides a caring, encouraging environment for your child.
- Parent involvement in schooling—You are actively involved in helping your child succeed in school.

Name Three

Have each family member name three ways the family supports her or him.

Support Through the Years

Age Ways to Love and Support Your Child

- 0-1
  - Hold your baby and look at her or him during feedings.
  - Respond to your child's needs.
  - Take delight in your child's development.
- 2-3
  - Cheer your child on as he or she masters new skills.
  - Touch your child often. Hug, Cuddle.
  - Say "yes" more than you say "no."
- 4-5
  - Encourage your child's thinking abilities by exposing her or him to new situations.
  - Play with your child, letting her or him choose the type of play.
  - Find other caring adults to participate regularly in your child's life.
- 6-10
  - Encourage your child as he or she learns new skills.
  - When you and your child disagree, point out you still love her or him.
  - Answer all your child's questions.
- 11-15
  - Accept the identity your child is forming.
  - Affirm independence and interdependence.
  - Be available to listen.
- 16-18
  - Continue to show affection for your teenager.
  - Let your teen overhear you complimenting her or him to someone else.
  - Ask for your teen's opinion or advice on something important.

Quick Tip:
The best way to love your child is to love yourself.

Helpful Hints

Tips that make supporting your child easier:

- Adjust the way you support your child as he or she grows.
- Identify your own sources of support and what you can learn from them.
- Ask your child what kind of support he or she likes best and why.
- Watch for non-verbal clues from your child saying he or she needs your support.

Daily Learning Planner: Ideas Parents Can Use to Help Children Do Better in School—Try a New Idea Every Day!

1. Check out a funny book at the library. Share it at dinner.
2. Does your child ride a bike? Review the rules of bicycle safety today.
3. Notice all the ways your family uses reading and writing throughout the day.
4. Challenge family members to write, eat or do other activities with the hand they don't favor.
5. Change chairs at mealtime. Pretend to be the person who usually sits in that chair.
6. Choose a special place to display your child's artwork.
7. Try eating with chopsticks tonight.
8. Put three items in a bag. Have your child and a friend use them as props for a five-minute skit.
9. Ask your child if she knows what to do in different emergency situations, such as if someone is choking.
10. Ask your child to guess how many times he blinks in a minute.
11. Help your child plan ahead. Talk about next weekend. What needs to be done to prepare for a family activity?
12. Allow your child to stay up late to read tonight.
13. If your child is watching TV, ask her to turn off the sound. Have her create her own story to go with the images.
14. Take your child out for a one-on-one breakfast.
15. Talk about outer space with your child.
16. Make a rebus with your child—a story that replaces some words with pictures.

17. Challenge your child to do a secret good deed for someone.
18. Have your child write a story from an interesting point of view, for example, a present's point of view of a birthday party.
19. Talk about effective ways your child can handle stress.
20. Talk with your child about what it means to be free.
21. Help your child find a website that demonstrates how to make things. Provide supplies and time to work.
22. Ask your child to help you plan an activity.
23. Talk with your child about a choice one of you needs to make. Discuss all the options and possible consequences.
24. Celebrate TV-Turnoff Week. During the week, use your time for reading, conversation and games.
25. Mix up pairs of socks and let your child match them up.
26. With your child, read the same news story in two different publications. Compare the versions.
27. Ask your child to give you a "six o'clock report" about his day. He should pretend he's a news anchor.
28. Ask your child about the best present she ever received. What made it special?
29. Research another culture and plan an evening to celebrate it.
30. Let your child draw on paper with a white candle or crayon. His lines will magically appear when he paints over it.

Make comprehension a reading goal

Research shows reading comprehension, or understanding what they read, is an essential skill for students—one they will depend on throughout their school years and beyond. To help your child develop this ability:

- Ask questions about reading materials. For example, "Why did the character do that?" "What do you think will happen next?" "How would you summarize the story?"
- Relate his life to his reading. How does your child relate to a story? What would he do as the main character? Has he experienced anything similar in real life?
- Match reading to your child's abilities. If a book is too difficult or frustrating for your child, try something else. Talk with his teacher about the best options.
- Provide irresistible materials. If your child has trouble finding appealing books or magazines, talk with his teacher and the librarian. Consider both fiction and nonfiction.
- Encourage him to write about reading. Suggest that your child write a book review. Would he recommend the book to others? Why or why not?
- Suggest connections to other stories. "This story was about trains. Have you read any other books about trains?"

Review geography with the weather page

There is a wealth of knowledge on the weather page in the newspaper or online. Use the map to help your child review important geography facts. You can:

- Play "Name That State." Give your child clues about a state (or city) on the weather map. For example, "I'm thinking of a state that starts with an M. It's near the Atlantic Ocean and has five letters." Keep giving clues, even if you give all letters.
- Personalize the map. Help your child find states where her relatives live. Ask your child what clothes Grandma might be wearing based on the weather where she lives today.
- Mix up places. Take turns seeing if you can trick each other. Give your child a fact incorrectly, such as, "Phoenix is in Texas." Let your child correct you, then offer you a challenge.
- Make connections. Read an article in the paper with your child. Then have her locate the state mentioned using the weather map.

Continue to support your child by staying involved

When parents are involved, children have higher grades and attendance rates. They're more motivated to learn. Commit to:

- Being present. Attend parent events.
- Offering to help. Ask the teacher for ways you can support your child's learning and the school.
- Monitoring schoolwork. Supporting learning at home is essential, too.

Learning to analyze builds critical thinking skills

Learning to analyze information is an important critical thinking skill. Look for everyday ways to help your child develop this higher-level skill:

- Talk about fact and opinion. Ask your child to tell you whether a statement is fact or opinion, and why.
- Ask "What do you think?" daily. Make sure he explains why he thinks as he does.

Source: V. Perrone, 101 Educational Conversations With Your 6th Grader, Chelsea House.

Focus on healthy living

A healthy body and brain will help your child be alert in school—which will lead to her academic success. Keep your child's brain and body healthy by:

- Involving your child in planning meals. What foods are healthy? Have her read recipes with you.
- Making use of TV time. Do exercises during commercial breaks. Keep small weights nearby or compete to see who can do the most situps.
- Being a good example. Stay active yourself!

Q&A What is the right age for children to get cell phones?

Q: My daughter wants a cell phone. Most of her friends have them. And there are times when I'd really like to be able to reach her. But I'm also afraid that it will affect her schoolwork. How can I know if she is old enough for a phone?

A: You are the only one who can decide whether your daughter is old enough to handle a phone. If she is generally responsible—including about completing her schoolwork on time and keeping track of her belongings—she is likely to be able to keep track of a phone. If she usually follows your rules on other issues, she'll probably follow limits you set on her cell phone.

And that's exactly what you need to do. Before you buy the phone, set up a clear code of what will—and will not—be acceptable. The phone cannot detract from her studies. And your child needs to respect the limits you set. Her cell phone must be put away during homework time. She must follow her school's policy regarding cell phones. She needs to understand that you have the right to look at any text messages she sends or receives. And she needs to know that if she uses the phone to bully others, you will take it away.

Remind your child that even though a cell phone can be used in an emergency, it won't replace her good judgment. She needs to keep herself out of dangerous situations rather than relying on the phone to give her a safety net.

Practice subtraction with a flash card game

Stack a set of flash cards with subtraction problems on them face down in the middle of the table. Count out 50 tokens. Use pennies or paper circles.

The first player draws a card with a subtraction problem (example: 11-7). If the player knows the correct answer is 4, he puts four tokens in the center of the table. Switch turns.

If a player gives an incorrect answer, he must take the correct number of tokens from the pile. Continue until one player is out of tokens.

Reading for fun really works

Studies link reading for pleasure to:

- Writing and grammar skills.
- Vocabulary development.
- Confidence about reading.

To encourage pleasure reading, show your child that you enjoy reading, too. Make reading a regular family routine.

Source: C. Clark and K. Bumbold, "Reading for pleasure: A research overview," National Literacy Trust, www.literacytrust.org.uk/assets/0000/0562/Reading\_pleasure\_2006.pdf.

Support school efforts to promote good discipline

When a child acts out in class, it is distracting for the teacher and other students. Promoting good discipline at home will instill good behavior in your student so he can focus on learning at school. You can:

- Help your child set positive learning goals.
- Involve your child in solving problems.
- Show your love. Firm and kind discipline is an act of love.

Parent Quiz

Are you teaching your child how to cope with disappointment?

All kids face disappointments in their lives. Your child may get a bad grade on a project or not make the soccer team, but help her learn to persevere and learn to deal with these disappointments. Answer yes or no to each question.

1. Do you help your child understand what can—and can't—be changed? Some things we just need to accept.
2. Do you help your child make positive choices when the unexpected happens?
3. Do you help your child learn from her mistakes? Help her brainstorm studying strategies that she can use to get better grades on spelling test.
4. Do you have a rule about behavior? She can feel disappointed, but she can't sulk.
5. Do you help your child figure out her own solution instead of fixing the problem for her? Building a sense of determination will help her succeed in school.

How well are you doing?

Each yes means you're teaching your child to deal with disappointments.

“Anyone who stops learning is old, whether at 20 or 80.”
—Henry Ford

Watch for 4th of July buttons sold by HCHS 10th and 11th graders and at local businesses in January, as well as other opportunities to support our efforts.

Please contact Bill at 398-1455 or at Roadside 697-2373 with questions, donations and to volunteer to help. Let's show everyone what an outstanding community we have here in Hill City!

THANK YOU!!

Thank you to everyone who donated and bought a ticket for the quilt raffle. I appreciate it very much!

The winner of the quilt was "Lisa Koran" of Hill City.

Again, thank you for all your support!

AARP MN Driver Safety Program (formerly 55 Alive)

Register by: May 14th

Taking this class is an easy and sure way to reduce your motor vehicle insurance premiums. State law requires all auto insurance providers to reduce premiums by 10% for policyholders who are 55 or older, when a certificate of class completion is provided to them. If you have never taken the class before, you need to take the initial 8-hour class first, and then every three years the 4-hour refresher is taken. No tests are given. All participants will be issued a certificate at the end of the class. You must have a valid driver's license with you at the beginning of the class so that a certificate can be issued. (Contact Stacey for a full schedule of local classes if needed)

4 Hour Refresher: May, 15th 5-9pm

Location: Hill City School, Room 227

Min. # Required: 8

Max. #: 30

Cost: $12 for members

$14 for non members

Character Crossroads! Everywhere! All the time!

★ Making Good Choices★ 2012-2013 will highlight Trustworthiness & Fairness

★ Graduating Character on Tuesday, May 28th, 2013!

Allow your child to explore the qualities of Character Crossroads and reasons why character is important.

We combine learning with having fun to teach good character and ethical decision making in a way that is meaningful and memorable. Students make postcards to mail to parents after each club meeting so you can reinforce the ideas at home.

There will be a "Graduating Character" ceremony on May 28th which all parents and guardians are invited to attend.
