HOME COMING 2013

The week of October 4th, HCHS students and staff celebrated homecoming week. The week was a fun and spirit filled one. Some highlights:

- The volleyball team beat the Nashwauk-Keewatin Spartans Tuesday night
- This year's homecoming court was made up of Izaiah Bishop, Nate Oukrop and Sawyer Passig as well as Sophie Jenkins, Courtney Welk and Sierra Powers
- At coronation on Tuesday, Sawyer and Sierra were crowned king and queen
- On Friday, the Senior class was crowned Spirit Point winners for the week at the Pep fest
- An interesting trivia game took place throughout the week, with questions that were written by Roger Rhodes, class of 2012
- The football team pulled to within two points against the highly ranked Kelliher-Northome Mustangs, suffering a 12-14 loss. (Side note: the Mustangs have been beating their opponents by 20+ points every week!)
- During half-time of the football game, the second annual Purple Pride parade took place. Lots of great floats, including a very festive float by the Spanish Club. The staff float, however, was the highlight, as it featured our very own Mr. Olig in a horse costume!

The Senior class sends out a big thanks to all of the parents, staff, groups and advisors who make the week unforgettable! GO HORNETS!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Practical Suggestions for Building Assets in Your Child

FAST FACTS

ASSET #4:
Caring Neighborhood

Youth are more likely to grow up healthy when they experience caring neighbors.

40%
*of youth surveyed by Search Institute have this asset in their lives.

What Are Assets?

Assets are 40 key building blocks to help kids succeed. "A caring neighborhood" is one of six support assets.

* Based on Search Institute surveys of almost 100,000 kids in 12th-grade youth throughout the United States.

Neighborhoodly Friends

Ten-year-old Susan Kennedy considered 80-year-old Mr. Boggs one of her best friends. He was very fond of her, too, and he nicknamed her "Twirly Friend," because she liked to do 'wheelies' on her bicycle in his driveway. Mr. Boggs taught Susan how to play checkers, and he once gave her a microscope.

When Mr. Boggs became gravely ill and needed to be hospitalized, Susan mailed him something every day. Sometimes it was a poem. Sometimes she wrote him a letter. Sometimes she drew him a picture and sent it to him. After a month, the hospital discharged him. Mr. Boggs then told Susan, "You saved my life. No one else called or wrote, and your mailings gave me the courage to live. Thank you."

Unlike Susan, many young people don't know their neighbors. They're scared of their neighbors, and many times, the neighbors are frightened by them. It's true, some neighborhoods are safer than others, but too many people don't reach out to each other—even in safe neighborhoods.

Friendships like the one between Susan and Mr. Boggs can only develop when people take risks by acknowledging their neighbors, getting to know their neighbors, and taking the time to form relationships. Usually, all neighbors—no matter what their age—benefit.

How well do you and your children know your neighbors? Do you know their names? Find a safe way to begin getting to know your neighbors. Organize a cookout or potluck. Greet your neighbors when you see them outside. Take one small step that will introduce your child to your neighbors and introduce you to the young people who live near you.

TALK Triggers

Talking with a neighbor may seem daunting to your child. Encourage your child to use these talk triggers to strike up a conversation with a neighbor:

- What do you like to do in your spare time?
- What do you like best about our neighborhood?
- Which books have had an impact on your life? Why?
- What troubles you most about the world today?
- What's your favorite childhood memory?
- What do you wish you had more time to do?

time together

Three ways to help your child build a relationship with a neighbor:

1. Take a day trip with a neighbor.
2. Invite a different neighbor for dinner once a month.
3. Arrange for a get-together so neighbors can meet and mingle.

5 Steps to Nurturing a Caring Neighborhood

1. Be honest about your hopes and fears about your neighborhood. Discuss these with your family—and some neighbors you trust.
2. Ask a neighbor about any existing and past neighborhood groups. Meet with an existing group or slowly start a small, new group.
3. Hold an annual neighborhood block party.
4. Find out the names of other parents in your neighborhood. Get to know them.
5. Spend time outdoors in your neighborhood where other neighbors are. Hang out in your front yard, instead of the back. Go to a neighborhood park. Take walks.

Quick Tip:
Learn the names of your neighbors.

Be Proactive
To encourage neighbors to be more caring toward your children, tell a neighbor how much it means to you and your children when he or she acknowledges smiles at or greets your children.

Daily Learning Planner: Ideas Parents Can Use to Help Children Do Well in School—Try a New Idea Every Day!

1. Let your child scrape crayon pieces onto a piece of paper. Cover with waxed paper and another sheet of paper. Then you (not your child) use a warm iron to melt the crayon.

3. Take your child to the library and introduce her to the librarian.
4. Ask your child, "What do you most enjoy doing with our family?"
5. Watch a funny TV show with your child. Then have him draw a comic strip showing what it was about.
6. Encourage your child to take her pet (or a neighbor's pet) on a walk. Go with her, and ask her about her day.
7. Look through the newspaper with your child. What headlines interest him? Read an article together and discuss it.
8. Listen for cities, states and countries mentioned on TV. Locate them on a map with your child.

Tips Families Can Use to Help Children Do Better in School

Go Hornets!

Reading at home boosts your child's vocabulary and leads to success

Children need to be able to read words, sound them out and pronounce them correctly. But they also need to know what those words mean. Otherwise, they'll struggle to understand what they have just read.

Reading at home is one of the most effective ways to boost your child's vocabulary. Best of all, you can do it as part of your regular read-aloud time. Here are some ways you can increase the number of words in your child's vocabulary:

- Read a variety of books. If you usually read fiction together, try a book that explains how something works. Check out a book about a country you'd like to visit. Or read a biography about a person your child admires.
- Look for new words as you read. "President Lincoln grew up in a cabin. What do you think that word might mean?" Look for pictures that can help your child figure out new words.
- Help your child create his own dictionary. All you need is a notebook with a page for each letter. When you discover a new word that he wants to remember, have him write it and its definition in the notebook.
- Listen for interesting words as you're watching TV. News programs often include words your child may not know. "Do you know what a hurricane is? Let's look it up."

Protect your child from cyberbullies

Your child would probably tell you if she got a bad grade on a test. But what if she's being cyberbullied? Many children keep that information a secret. As a result, parents don't find out until the bullying has gone on too long.

Here are some tips to protect your child from this kind of bullying:

- Talk about cyberbullying. Discuss how bullying isn't always done in person. Let her know that no one should put up with bullying.
- Monitor computer time. In elementary school, you should know the password for any website your child visits.
- Support your child. She needs you to be on her side.
- Document cyberbullying. Save screen shots of comments made to or about your child. Share them with the school and with law enforcement.

Source: Department of Health and Human Services, "Stop Bullying: What Parents Can Do," www.stopbullying.gov/topics/cyberbullying/parents/index.html.

Three ways to celebrate Geography Awareness Week

Geography is more than maps and state capitals. It's about how places shape people—and people shape places. During Geography Awareness Week (Nov. 17-23), here are some things to do at home:

1. Map it! Keep an atlas nearby when you watch the news. Look up unfamiliar places.
2. Go on a virtual trip. Visit the library and check out books about a country you'd like to visit. Then go online to look at more pictures.
3. Learn about your community. Who first settled in your town? How are you connected to the rest of the world?

Source: National Geographic, "My Wonderful World," www.mywonderfulworld.org/parents_welcome.html.

Make book reports a success

Book reports can be intimidating. Help your child break them into manageable parts:

- Choose a book that interests him.
- Talk about what book reports include.
- Ask questions to help your child focus his writing.

Homework can improve your child's education

Studies show that homework teaches students numerous things, including:

- Reliability.
- Time management.
- Persistence.
- Study skills.

Q&A Is my daughter old enough to handle a cell phone?

Q: My child wants a cell phone. She says her friends all have them. I'm worried that she's not old enough for the responsibility. On the other hand, I would feel safer if I could call her. Is she too young? How can I help her use technology responsibly?

A: Many parents feel the same way you do—that a cell phone would give them peace of mind. But without putting some rules in place, a cell phone can become a very expensive toy.

If you do decide your daughter is ready for a cell phone, consider a step-by-step approach.

- 1. Allow your child to only call family members at first. At the end of the month, check the cell phone bill with her. It's good for her to know that you can always check to see what she's been doing with the phone.
- 2. Consider adding texting if you see that she is using her phone responsibly. But remind your child that her phone should never detract from her schoolwork. Give her a limited number of texts per month. Again, check the bill together at the end of the month.

She may make mistakes. When she does, take a step back on your plan. Help her understand that having a cell phone is a privilege.

Parent Quiz

Is your child responsible for homework?

When your child completes his homework every night, he's not just memorizing spelling words and math facts. He's also learning to take responsibility for his work and his learning. Help your child build responsibility by putting him in charge of homework time. Answer yes or no to the following questions:

- 1. Does your child know that homework is his responsibility?
- 2. Do you have a regular study time every day? Your child knows that he has to do something academic during that time.
- 3. Do you give your child some choice in how he does homework? He can choose which subject to study first, for example.
- 4. Do you look over your child's homework to see that it's finished?
- 5. Do you encourage your child to talk with his teacher if he faces regular struggles with homework?

How well are you doing?

Each yes means responsibility for homework is where it belongs. For each no, try that idea from the quiz.

“Intelligence plus character—that is the goal of true education.”
—Martin Luther King, Jr.

Mistakes can be great learning opportunities

Research shows that making mistakes is often one of the best ways to learn.

Sometimes, it's best to let your child make mistakes. Don't keep nagging him to write the book report that's due on Friday. Instead, let him find out what happens if he doesn't finish it.

Help your child identify his own mistakes. What different choices might he have made?

Source: University of Exeter, “Why We Learn From Our Mistakes,” Science Daily, July 3, 2007, <http://tinyurl.com/3bwhmm>.

Prepare for test success

When kids do well on tests, it shows they've learned the material—and it makes them feel great! This confidence leads to future success. Encourage your child to:

- Play ‘Beat the Clock.’ Can your child complete 10 math problems in 15 minutes?
- Memorize lists using acronyms, such as HOMES for the Great Lakes.
- Use a study plan. Studying over several days reduces stress and boosts grades.

Source: A. Dolin, M.Ed., “10 Tips to Help Your Elementary School Daughter Study,” Parenting Pink, <http://parentingpink.com/?p=13063>.

Help your child build critical thinking skills

Critical thinking skills are essential for your child's academic success. To help her build these important skills:

- Talk about future events to practice planning ahead.
- Encourage her to catch ‘mistakes’ that you make in grammar and math.
- Engage in activities that include building and sorting.

Old Business

A. Neil Gowell – water/sewer

It was suggested that a letter be written to the owner of the property where Neil is living to let them know that Neil has been making payments on the water/sewer bill and that in November the outstanding bill will be assessed against the property taxes. If there is no intention of fixing the broken pipes to once again have water service, they can take the connections out to the curb stop and the monthly base rate billings will stop along with the late fees that may be assessed.

B. Maple Street Easement -Per City Attorney John Dimich there is no need to obtain a formal easement as the city has been maintaining it for over six years. Council member Lange still believes that the city should formalize an easement by having a survey done and assessing the cost to all of the adjoining property owners on Maple Street. The rest of the Council were not in agreement with Lange.

New Business

A. Tim Nichols/Song Lo – Quadna

and Steve and Kim Rich were all present at the meeting to introduce themselves and appraise the Council of their plans to redevelop Quadna Mountain Resort. They also asked the Council to assist them with obtaining financing through the use of Northland Securities, Inc. Northland Securities would be working for Hill City to identify potential public assistance options for the redevelopment of Quadna Resort. Lifestyle Resorts (the developer) would pay the city up to $12,300.00 for the review and analysis of options for potential public financial assistance through Northland Securities.

Due to a Public Hearing that was scheduled for 7:00 p.m. Motion made by Rollins to postpone the regular Council meeting, second by Golden. The motion carried, with all members present voting in favor.

Public Hearing- Mayor Baker opened the Public Hearing at 7:00 p.m. This Public Hearing was held because of a request by Tom and Lean Bischoff to rezone Lots 10, 11, and 12 of Block 12, in Bucks Addition from R-1 One and Two Family Residential to R-2 Multiple Family Residential. There were two citizens from neighboring properties that had concerns about the parking. After discussion, it was decided that there would need to be another Public Hearing on this with the owners of the property to be rezoned present, a signed application for the rezoning and a copy of a "site" map showing where the proposed parking would be.

Motion made by Baker to close the Public Hearing and reopen the regular Council meeting, second by Baratto. The motion carried, with all members present voting in favor.

Tim Nichols showed drawings and layouts of the proposed new three story lodge building. They also took questions from the audience and the Council. Tim Nichols and Song Lo requested that the Council enter into a Memorandum of Understanding with Lifestyle Resorts detailing how the city could assist them with obtaining funding for the project. This Memorandum of Understanding and the Financial Planning Agreement was previously reviewed with City Attorney Dimich who felt that this MOU was acceptable.

as presented, second by Golden. The motion carried, with all members present voting in favor.

Motion made by Rollins to enter into the Financial Planning Agreement between the City of Hill City and Northland Securities, Inc. as presented, second by Lange. Motion carried, with all members present voting in favor.

Reports- George Casper, Head Maintenance/Public Works, reported that STS was here and had cut down seven trees. George is getting a quote from Lake States on cutting dead limbs from trees down in Hill Lake Park. They had to get a new backhoe tire. Currently they have been trimming trees in the right-of-ways and doing ditching throughout town. They are going to need a new lawn mower before next Spring. The red Dodge maintenance pickup is burning oil, needs new tires and an alignment, etc. Council told George to get some quotes for a new utility truck for maintenance.

Police Chief Jeff Madsen reported that he had the decals redone on the Ford squad for approximately $450.00 and would like to remove the decals on the older squad car and put vinyl patches on it for approximately $60.00 per patch. He also had to purchase new state mandated citations for approximately $800.00.

Police Chief Madsen also reported that there had been a county wide Emergency Management meeting in McGregor earlier this month that Joni Golden, George Casper, Diana Gillson and himself had attended. There is FEMA funding available for identified emergency needs throughout the county.

Council member Rollins reported that the computer in the City Hall lobby needed to be replaced because of its age and how slow it was. Also, he would like to see WiFi put into City Hall.

Motion made by Baker to update the computer in City Hall with a cost not to exceed $700.00 and to get WiFi installed at a cost not to exceed $200.00, second by Baratto. Motion carried, with all members present voting in favor.

Motion made by Lange to adjourn the meeting at 8:45 p.m., second by Rollins. Motion carried, with all members present voting in favor.

NOVEMBER 11, 2013
HONORING ALL WHO SERVED

The students, faculty and staff of the Hill City School would like to cordially invite you to our Veterans Day Recognition Assembly. To honor those who have served, we are asking that you wear red, white or blue to the event.

Hill City Community Education Presentation: A Tribute to Hill City Area Veterans

Hill City High School
November 11, 2013
6:30 p.m. to 8:00 p.m.
In the Assembly Room 225

The people of the Hill City area have a long tradition of military service. This tradition will be examined by presenter Paul Sailer through the activities of community leaders with the American Legion, Boy Scouts and the Hill City News, prior to and during WWII. Information will be provided about Mrs. C.W. Morton's 1952 classic study of Hill City veterans entitled What Price War? - A Military Record of Hill City, Minnesota. A rare ten minute National Archive film will be shown that includes footage of Hill City native Don Beerbower at his airfield in France during July 1944.

Paul Sailer served as a helicopter pilot in the Vietnam War and is the son of WWII veteran Archie Sailer, a 1934 graduate of Hill City. Paul is the author of The Oranges are Sweet, the biography of Major Don Beerbower, Minnesota's leading fighter pilot in WWII. As you know, Don graduated from Hill City High School in 1939.

Additional information about Mr. Sailer can be found at:
www.lodenbooks.com.

Announces a debt free, fully paid scholarship program for those wishing to be "College Bound".

DULUTH, MN—Representatives of Minnesota's 8th District Congressman Rick Nolan recently held College Fair Nights for high school and college students seeking a debt free education. The events were held in Duluth, Grand Rapids, Brainerd and Cambridge to encourage all college bound students to take advantage of the fully paid scholarships, travel and career boosting employment opportunities offered by the federal government.

Those interested should contact Representative Nolan's staff for counselors to answer questions and for materials concerning the military academies, the ROTC, the G.I. Bill, in-service tuition assistance, and in-service military occupational specialty training schools. The programs lead to advanced degrees, licenses, certifications and highly paid careers in both civilian and government occupations.
