Meet Lori Grimes

Lori runs Homestead Arts Farm with her husband Mark where they raise huacayas alpacas. The fleece from these alpacas are used to make sweaters, socks, and scarves- all the warm things you need for the Minnesota winters. Lori is originally from the Twin Cities and loved to go to the state fair to visit the animals. The 32 acre farm began in 2019 when they purchased their first four alpacas. Lori immediately fell in love with these beautiful animals. The herd has grown significantly and so has their farm. Mark and Lori moved to Pine Island after living in Rochester where they owned a bike store, horse stables and a bakery. The Grimeses welcome people to share in their excitement and learn about the fuzzy-fleeced creatures.
