2025 Contemporary Photography of Hawaii

If you're looking for something to do this Friday night, check out the 2025 Contemporary Photography of Hawaii at the Downtown Art Center. The opening reception will feature the work of Kalani sophomore Ty Terada, who has two of his photographs on display. Ty's street photography style channels the spirit of Henri Cartier-Bresson, with subtle nods to the work of Alex Webb and Trent Parke. His sophisticated compositions, sharp attention to detail, and intuitive ability to capture dynamic moments create immersive images that invite viewers to see the world through his lens.

Leilani Phan and Daniel Shiraki

In 2015, the program was again extended to recognize students who demonstrate ability and accomplishment in career and technical education fields. Each year, up to 161 students (from all 50 states and are named as Presidential Scholars, one of the nation's highest honors for high school students. ### Bihoku High School (Nagoya) and Busan Computer Science High School (Korea)

Our visitors from Nagoya and Busan have been visiting Hawaii and Kalani High School for the past week.

It is with much sadness that we say goodbye to our new friends from Bihoku High School and Busan High School.

We truly value our international partnerships, as they open doors to new perspectives, friendships, and learning experiences that extend far beyond the classroom

Our students will be visiting Nagoya in October and Busan in July.

Congratulations Kalani High School

The Hawai'i State Department of Education is proud to announce and celebrate Kalani High School as a Hawaii School of Democracy. This honor reflects not just an achievement but a deep and shared commitment to nurturing the next generation of informed, engaged citizens—an endeavor more critical today than ever before.

A healthy democracy—one that truly thrives—depends on the active and informed participation of all its citizens. Yet, we know that civic learning opportunities have dwindled in too many schools across the nation, leaving young people unprepared to engage meaningfully in public life. Kalani, however, has risen to this challenge, ensuring that civic education is not just present but prioritized.

Participating in the application process, we were able to identify the strength of our program and pockets that could be improved. We learned a lot about ourselves and our school and we believe that we can empower students to be not only observers of democracy but active participants and stewards of it.

Special thanks to teacher Dan Hamada. Mr. Hamada was responsible for much of the legwork and he was the principal writer of the application. A big mahalo to Superintendent Hayashi and to Social Studies Education Specialist Rosanna Fukuda for finding opportunities like Schools of Democracy – opportunities that provide our students with the knowledge and skills to understand their rights and responsibilities and to contribute to their communities and our country.
